CYBERSECURITY IN FOCUS AT 9TH ANNUAL SECUREWORLD CHARLOTTE

Nationally-recognized cybersecurity conference returning to Charlotte; hundreds of InfoSec leaders will learn and share best practices

March 4-5, 2020 • 7:30 a.m. – 3:45 p.m.
Charlotte Convention Center
501 South College Street, Charlotte, NC

CHARLOTTE, NC — These days, cyber incidents are making the headlines—from major data breaches and nation-state hacking to ransomware viruses that lock up our computers and smart devices. This increasing attention on digital security has people asking: Is our personal data truly secure anymore? And what can you do to protect yourself at this point?

SecureWorld can arrange interviews with IT security experts to answer these questions for your audience. With a smaller regional crowd of about 350, attendees can expect more interaction and engagement with presenters and peers.

This is the ninth year of SecureWorld Charlotte, a two-day conference where top minds in the local cybersecurity industry gather for needed training and collaboration. We invite you to join us for access to these practitioners and thought leaders who can help your audience better understand the issues that threaten their security, privacy, and finances.

Keynotes & Featured Presentations:

“Living in a Resilient World”

Tammy Moskites, Ponemon Institute Distinguished Fellow; Former CISO, Time Warner Cable

“Executive Leadership Panel: Establishing and Evaluating Effective Cybersecurity Programs”
